Tabbing in Table Cells

Blank Templates

With most Avery templates, you can move the cursor from label to label or card to card either by moving the cursor with your mouse and clicking on the desired label or card, or by using the Tab key to move to the next label or card.

However, certain Avery blank templates created for Microsoft® Word 2003, XP, 2002, and 2000 will not allow you to use the Tab key to move from label to label or from card to card.

These templates are in the following categories:

- Mini-sheets, such as: address labels.
- Photo ID products.
- Folded cards, such as: greeting cards, tent cards, and folded business cards.
- 2-side printable cards, such as: business cards and postcards.
- Some dividers.
- Labels with round shapes, such as: CD/DVD labels, round labels and burst labels.

These blank templates were created in Microsoft® Word using the table feature. When one of these blank templates is opened, tabbing from cell to cell within the table will cause the cells to misalign.

To prevent this from happening, use the mouse to position the cursor for typing.
